RUTTER HOBBS & DAVIDOFF LAUNCHES ASIA PRACTICE

Full Service Law Firm Leverages Expertise with Clients from Across the Globe

LOS ANGELES (Nov. 16, 2009) – Los Angeles-based law firm Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff Incorporated today announced the launch of its Asia Practice, a group of legal experts specializing in the unique needs of clients conducting business in the Asia Pacific community. The group’s launch serves as an example of Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff’s continued growth, and reflects the firm’s long history of working with diverse clients to help them achieve their business goals.

“At Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff we are fortunate to have achieved great success in working with a diverse client base, including Asian-American business owners, and we’re well-poised to service their business needs,” said Brian Davidoff, managing director of Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff. “By formalizing our Asia Practice, we look forward to continuing our good work with this influential clientele by combining our keen understanding of Asian cultural nuances with our ability to provide sophisticated legal services that deliver solutions.”

As it has done for nearly four decades, Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff continues to focus its growth to meet the needs of Los Angeles’ diverse, international community. The Asia Practice provides experienced legal counsel across wide-ranging areas of expertise, including business litigation, employment law, intellectual property, bankruptcy, real estate and business transactions.

Judy Lam, a partner with Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff and chair of its Asia Practice, recently took a leading role in the California State Bar Litigation Section’s “A Week in Legal Hong Kong.” This program provided an unprecedented opportunity for attorneys from across California to visit Hong Kong to learn about its legal system. Participants traveled to Hong Kong for a series of meetings, gaining an insider’s view into Hong Kong’s legal and business structures and participating in rich cultural exchange and relationship-building.
