RUTTER HOBBS & DAVIDOFF COMPLETES TRANSACTION FOR ELECTRIC BICYCLES DISTRIBUTOR CURRIE

LOS ANGELES (May 5, 2008) – Los Angeles-based law firm Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff Incorporated recently represented parent company Sunnex International Ltd. in a transaction involving the sale of substantially all of the assets of Currie Technologies, Inc., a distributor of hybrid and electric-powered bicycles and personal transportation products. Brian L. Davidoff, managing partner of Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff, was engaged by Sunnex to oversee the transaction.

Currie Technologies, a majority owned subsidiary of Sunnex, was known for its IZIP™ hybrid-electric bikes and scooters. The assets of Currie were sold to a private party who was located during marketing efforts conducted by Currie.

“The transaction represents the culmination of a difficult period for Currie, and we’re pleased to see this resolution for the company,” said Brian Davidoff, managing partner of Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff. “Our firm was able to bring both its transactional and bankruptcy expertise to assist in this bankruptcy sale.”

Davidoff was supported by Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff colleague Eric C. Peterson in representing Sunnex.
