BUSINESS LAW EXPERT TO SHARE INSIGHT AT NAPABA CALIFORNIA REGIONAL CONFERENCE

Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff's Judy Lam to Offer Tips for Navigating Today's Uncertain Business Climate, Dealing with Change in Legal Profession

LOS ANGELES (June 17, 2009) – Los Angeles-based law firm Rutter Hobbs & Davidoff today announced that partner Judy Lam, an attorney specializing in business litigation, dispute resolution and real estate, will speak at the National Asian Pacific American Bar Association's (NAPABA) California Regional Conference at the Sheraton Los Angeles Downtown Hotel on Saturday, June 20, from 10:15 to 11:45 a.m. Exploring the unique role of APA lawyers in the changing economy, the conference will engage attendees in a lineup of important networking events.

In a panel titled "Landing on Your Feet and Navigating in an Uncertain Legal Landscape," Lam, who has been involved with the NAPABA for several years on a national and regional level, will address the turmoil that is affecting law firms of all sizes and ultimately impacting lawyers' sense of security and ability to maintain high levels of service. A recognized authority in the business law sector, she will educate lawyers on how to serve clients and seize new opportunities in today's tumultuous business climate. Lam, along with in-house legal counsel from Microsoft and Sun Microsystems, will also lend expert advice on how to save a job, adjust to a new position and maximize the power of public relations—and other tactical business solutions—within a law firm.

"The 'Landing on Your Feet and Navigating in an Uncertain Legal Landscape' panel presents attorneys with an ideal opportunity to learn how to deal with the current change and chaos in the legal profession," said Lam. "As the industry continues to evolve, legal practitioners must hone the strategic ability to adapt and grow along with it. Having recently made the switch from a failing firm to a flourishing firm, I look forward to sharing my firsthand knowledge and expertise in this area."

Fluent in Cantonese and conversant in Mandarin Chinese, Lam represents many Asian clients in all aspects of their business planning and execution, as well as many companies seeking to do business in Asia or with the Asian Community. Named a “Rising Star” in litigation by Law & Politics, she tailors her skills to clients’ best advantage for their particular case, whether it is aggressive litigation or skillful negotiation.
